MANDATORY EVACUATION NOTICE

As of today a MANDATORY EVACUATION order has been issued for our area. We emphasize, in case of a hurricane of any category, to make arrangements to evacuate the area as soon as the Hurricane Center issues an evacuation. It is extremely dangerous to remain during and after a hurricane. Residents who choose to stay during a mandatory evacuation will stay at their own risk. Public authorities will not respond to any emergency calls until the evacuation has been lifted.

There will be no Security personnel on the property during a mandatory evacuation and the staff will not return until the mandatory evacuation has been lifted and the area has been cleared.

The Employee Evacuation Order

RE: HURRICANE EVACUATION ORDER

This memo shall serve to confirm that if you are working in a building, which is ordered to be evacuated in the event of a hurricane warning, you are required to observe the order and leave the building for a safer location. Please consult with your supervisor concerning the timing of your evacuation. While some employees have expressed a willingness to voluntarily stay in the buildings which have been evacuated, our Company cannot allow anyone to remain in a building under these circumstances, and by doing so, you will be acting outside the scope of this Company directive, and at your own risk.

Thank you and we hope that you and your family remain safe.

Please sign below acknowledging receipt of this memo and return it to your supervisor.

HURRICANE PREPARATION

NEW GOVERNEMENT GUIDELINES

URGE RESIDENTS TO BE ABLE TO SURVIVE ON THEIR OWN FOR 7 DAYS

When 3.2 million customers lost power during Hurricane Wilma, Florida Power & Light went to gridding its network in hopes of fewer outages, yet concedes massive blackouts still are likely.

A growing number of service stations and grocery stores have hooked up generators, but can only operate if employees can navigate through debris.

If you are on medication, make sure you get refills as soon as restrictions allow. A storm may disrupt your ability to get refills for days, if not weeks.

If you have children, explain to them what to expect in the way of noise, rain, and wind. Note that they will be safe if proper preparations are made. Have lots of toys and games available in case you're stuck in one place for an extended period.

If you own pets and plan to evacuate, remember most shelters do not accept pets. Those that do accept pets require proof of vaccinations. Call in advance for availability, or look in advance for a pet friendly hotel or motel.

If you plan to stay in a shelter, take your own bedding as most shelters do not provide bedding.

If you have allergies, see your doctor now to decide the appropriate preventative action. Going to a shelter or getting on the road to leave can be difficult because tropical storms whip up allergens.

If you are pregnant, call your doctor and ask about making arrangements to be in or near a hospital if a storm approaches at the time you are scheduled to give birth.

If you are elderly and are alone, try to find a friend or family member to stay with, or go to a shelter. Make plans to have someone contact you after the storm. Please notify the property manager of your plans and leave a contact number so that you can be reached in case of emergency, such as property damage.

If you have special medical needs, register now with your appropriate county agency.
